The difference in detail.

01

As a specialist dealer of shipping components, we see ourselves as expert contact partners in the areas of oil firing technology, pump technology and electrical engineering technology. Thanks to our many years of experience and established networking in the sector, we can deliver almost all products in a timely manner. Change to us – the safe harbour!

Immediately shippable.

If a machine is not running properly, business also stutters. Short delivery times are therefore essential. In order to meet this daily requirement, we keep a large stock of common spare parts. We maintain continuous contact with suppliers and customers and adjust the contents of our warehouse to suit individual requirements at all times. If an item is not yet a standard article in our warehouse, we order it promptly. Even when it comes to unusual components, as far as we are concerned there are no obstacles – only challenges.

02

Every part is decisive.

Whether it is a matter of original parts, OEM spare parts or alternative solutions, good quality is simply good quality. That is why we work almost exclusively with European suppliers who have proven their quality over decades. We make no compromises in that regard. And that's a promise.

03

Always there for you.
